International Collaboration & Intercultural Exchange

We believe that understanding differences is the starting point for exploring our real world and mutual respect and learning with an open mind is the essence of excellence. Therefore, our teachers and students are encouraged to join international exchanges and we also enjoy welcoming friends from all over the world.

- In 1921, John Dewey, an American Educator, delivered a speech at Fuzhou No.1 High School to offer educational guidance and inspire teachers and students till now.
- Students engage in international academic and cultural programs in the U.S., UK, Canada, Germany, Japan, Singapore, etc. For example, they attended the scientific summer camp at the University of St Andrews.
- We are establishing collaborations with prestigious institutions and encourage teachers to participate in international professional trainings and conferences every year. In May 2013, Mr. Wang Nengbin (Vice-principal of Fuzhou No.1 High School) visited the Henry C. Lee Institute of Forensic Science. From 2012, our teachers attend gifted education summer program "Confucius" every year.
- Joining "East Meets West: Bridging the Admission Gap" with other Chinese key high schools, we offer direct, efficient, transparent and fair opportunities for students to study abroad.
